

Joseph Politano

Joseph Politano is an economic analyst, data journalist, and online content creator. He is the writer and founder of Apricitas Economics—an independent weekly newsletter read by more than 45,000 people. His work focuses on macroeconomics, particularly labor markets, inflation, housing, international trade, and industrial policy. Prior to writing Apricitas, Joseph received a BA in Economics & Political Science from the George Washington University, served as a Peace Corps Volunteer, and worked at the Bureau of Labor Statistics."